WEBB ELECTED TWIN PINES HEAD RECOUNT SWITCHES BOARD VOTE

by Sid Kastner

At the Twin Pines board meeting on Monday evening, the result of a recount of the annual meeting's election ballots was presented by the Supervisory committee, chaired by Muriel Weidenfeld; the recount was necessary because three ballots, representing ten votes, had originally been invalidated because they split the vote among more than three candidates - these ballots were now determined to be valid because the corresponding ballot instruction was incorrectly stated.

The final vote tally is:

John Webb - 338
George Jones - 285
William Lathom - 236
Bruce Bowman - 231
Matthias Vanderzon - 227
Edward Spiegelthal - 102
Thomas McAndrew - 28
Francis Scott - 18

The board accordingly accepted and validated this result. Thus Webb, Jones and Lathom become new board members, while Bowman and Vanderzon become alternate board members.

The stresses of the corporation's transition period during the last year - culminating in last week's vigorously contested election - were reflected in a criticism of the election procedures read into the record by Bruce Bowman, and a commendation by several board members of William Lathom's efforts in gaining long-sought insurance for the corporation. Bowman, after saying there were illegalities present during the election, stated that he felt the first important matter before the board was to re-write the bylaws, and urged that a special membership meeting be held in the near future. Directors Lathom and Peter Watters and committee members Weidenfeld and Leonie Penney took some exception to the election charges in Bowman's statement.

On a motion by director John Unger, the board unanimously passed a resolution commanding Lathom for his efforts on behalf of the corporation during his term as president. Lathom responded with thanks and expressed appreciation for support from the board.

The new board opened its first meeting by electing new officers. An initial proposal by director Leo Gerton to elect interim officers, pending probable enlargement of the board from seven members to nine under proposed new bylaws, was decided to be untenable, and the following people were elected: John Webb, president; Peter Watters, vice-president; George Jones, secretary; John Unger, treasurer.

The board then started to dig into the arduous task of reviewing the new set of additional bylaws which are in the process of being drawn up by director John Unger and counsel Allan Housley, in response to suggestions made at the annual meeting.

It found time however to listen to the comments of William Fern, chairman of the Loan committee,

Council Zips Through Greenbriar-less Agenda

by Bob McGee

The regular meeting of the Greenbelt city council on Monday, March 4, could easily be summed up in these post-meeting remarks by Mayor Dick Pilski: "See what you can do when Greenbriar isn't on the agenda? It may not make exciting reading, but you can sure get a lot done in a short time." Council did, in a relatively short session, cover a great deal of the nitty-gritty items that for most people add up to making this a good town to live in; everything from health to putting the final touches on beautifying the Center Mall.

Council heard a report from Henry Fisher, who stated that the Greenbelt Lions and Lions Belles were sponsoring a mass health screening on Sat., April 6, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the City Hall. Fisher, who is serving as chairman of the event, said that Leo Gerton agreed to serve as co-chairman because of his previous organizing experience with this type of mass volunteer effort. Free tests will be offered for diabetes, tuberculosis, cancer, heart and hearing deficiencies - possibly other medical conditions by the time of the event. He asked for council support in publicizing and obtaining volunteer support for the various activities.

Manager Giese reported that the hang-up has been in obtaining the needed appraisals. As soon as these are obtained, within the next couple of weeks, application can be made for state funds and, upon acknowledgement of receipt of application, the city would be in a position to negotiate with the property owner.

Giese pointed out, however, that there were differences between himself PRAB and the APB as to what land acquisition priorities for the city should be, and he felt that application for state funds for the Smith-Ewing property purchase might well foreclose the possibility for obtaining state funds on other acquisitions.

This touched off a lengthy discussion on land purchase. It was finally agreed to defer the matter to the next regular meeting, at which time council would also consider the APB and the PRAB report which PRAB chairman Joe Wilkinson had earlier presented. Pilski said that it was up to council "to bite the bullet" and resolve any differences among the advisory groups.

On a motion by Councilman Charles Schwan, council voted to accept the bid of Chris Maddox and Associates for four 8' benches and eight 6' benches for the Center mall at a total cost of $2,784. Subject to approval of Manager Giese on the quality of the stock, council voted to accept the bid of Holland Gardens Nursery for an assortment of trees to be planted in the mall at a total cost of $2,756. The total costs fell far below the $7,500 allocated for these items.

In accordance with the manager's recommendations, council also voted to secure the services of the Interprofessional Planning and Design Studio of Silver Spring for engineering consultation on developing the tennis courts, and the firm of John D. Emmer and Associates, Silver Spring, as engineering consultants for inspection of street construction.

The latter was subject to negotiating for a price that would not exceed the fees the city expects to collect from the Greenbriar developer. In selecting the latter firm, Giese stated that the only negative reported was that Emmer tended to be tough on developers, but thought that for Greenbelt, this might be a prime recommendation. Council smilingly agreed.

Councilman Gil Weidenfeld reported an incident at the lake park in which a young woman broke her arm in a bicycle accident, and that persons were at a loss to get help from the rescue squad - that it took 15 minutes before help arrived. He hastened to assure that the rescue squad arrived immediately after being notified - it was just that people didn't know what to do on the scene. The manager was urged to explore the situation and report back suggestions for handling emergencies at the park.

In other actions, council passed a policy regulating the flying of city flags during periods of mourning, and urged the manager to do a comparative study and report his recommendations to council regarding the value of installing a building permit plan which would require the submission of site development plans.

Pro Environment

To the Editor:

In response to Mr. Hogensen's letter inquiring about the membership of the P.G. Environmental Coalition we do not know the total membership figures, but we are members and fully support Ms. Cohen's opposition to the Greenbriar sewage treatment plant. We also support the Greenbelt Save Our Community Committee.

Perhaps if children today did not have to grow up in increasingly unaesthetic, congested, noisy, and polluted surroundings, they would feel less attracted to, as Mr. Hogensen puts it, the "Drug Culture." Drugs may offer a brief sense of beauty and peace that they can no longer find in the world about them.

THANKS

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to show my appreciation for all the cards, visits, calls, notes, and letters from my many, many friends in Greenbelt. I appreciate the attention of the entire Greenbelt Center School staff, all of my "little people" from Center School, and, of course, the devotion of my three lovely daughters during my stay at Prince Georges Hospital.

The nights were very short. The days were very long. But your kindness and consideration made the days more bearable for me. It might interest you to know that I did receive over 300 pieces of mail. Once again thank you all and God bless you.

Secretary, Center School

Financing of GHI Heating Program Sparks Discussion

by Barbara Likowski

Charging "sabotage", Mat Amberg, 6E Hillside reacted with righteous indignation to a letter from Eunice Coxon which was read at the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. membership information meeting Thursday evening, March 7. Amberg stated that it was "unforgivable" to "agitate" to get people to write letters before the membership had had an opportunity to look at the facts and judge for themselves. He was referring to Mrs. Coxon's written plea to GHI members to write to their congressman, Lawrence Hogan, and indicate that they were not in favor of Government National Mortgage Association's (GNMA) offer to declare a moratorium on GHI loan payments for a year since the loan would still have to be paid up by '77 instead of giving GHI an additional year to pay as was first believed. There were murmurs of agreement from the audience with Amberg's point of view.

This was the first of two membership meetings held in an effort to improve communication between membership and the board and staff and to acquaint members with a short range energy saving program and a long range planning program. Joseph Comproni, vice-president of the board, presided.

Speaking about the energy crisis as it affects GHI was director Hugh O'Donnell chairman of the planning, engineering and maintenance committee. Announcing that GHI is indeed in the midst of an energy crisis caused by a shortage of fuel oil and a rise in price, O'Donnell outlined proposals aimed at a minimum of 15% reduction in consumption by GHI. These include adjustment of oil burners, replacement of defective controls in brick homes and in the four large frame home heating plants and other needed repairs. Bids have been obtained on conversion of brick home and GDC apartment heating plants to variable temperature control and on a model project in 12 court Ridge. Programs in the planning stages were also discussed, among them was purchase of storm windows and doors in large lots and added insulation in attics. Also a preventative maintenance (p.m.) program in heating has been established.

Nicholas Dunlap, director of maintenance outlined a systematic approach to inspection to prevent failure. Beginning by dividing GHI into three zones with one mechanic and one helper in each zone, Dunlap cited a need for a sense of direction to heating maintenance work. Dunlap, describing a need for two more helpers and additional tools and vehicles added that the "cost of p.m. is nil compared to the cost of failure."

Chairman of the finance committee Thomas X. White presented a tightly drawn financial picture with very little or no flexibility of funding of 1974 operations. He stated that increased charges are a certainty but if GHI acts wisely they can be kept to a minimum.

Means for financing resales are improving according to Comproni who mentioned that both Twin Pines and Federal Credit Union were now able to lend money for GHI houses. He added that other means such as membership financing or leasing with an option to buy were also available.

Questions from the audience of approximately 100 people were mostly concerned with saving energy. Members offered suggestions and asked advice about weather-stripping, insulation and other p.m. matters.

Mary Welch, 32D Ridge and Lars Bronstein, 9M Southway posed the question of the feasibility of those members who can afford to each paying a lump sum per unit for maintenance programs improvement to keep monthly charges low. While this possibility is open to exploration it was felt by O'Donnell that it would be difficult to administer.

GREENBELT SCHOOLS

Students Participate Early At SHL Elementary School

(The following article is the second of a series on schools serving the Greenbelt community.)

by Rosemary Gallick

According to Stanley J. Klein, principal of Springhill Lake Elementary School, education is a mutual responsibility of both home and school. Klein welcomes the participation of parents and says that the school operation is "greatly affected by their involvement and co-operation."

"I hope parents would afford themselves of any free time to meet with teachers and work jointly with the school," Klein said. The principal extended an invitation to interested parents to give his office a call and make arrangements for a visit. A number of parents are now involved in volunteer work at the school both in the classroom and in the school office.

Klein also encourages student participation in making school policy. The student government consists of an upper legislature (including grades three through six) and the lower legislature (grades 1 and 2). In addition, the school has a variety of clubs centered on activities such as film, science, sewing, and tumbling.

Enrollment is below the school's full capacity of 770 with 665 students currently in attendance. This figure is up, however, from the 652 students who were in attendance last June. Approximately 32% of the present student body is black. According to Klein, desegregation is working well. He says the atmosphere of the school is peaceful and cites excellent support from the parents of both the children who come by bus and the children who walk to school.

Klein believes that bus safety is "adequate", but says there is room for improvement. He also suggested that bus schedules could be more carefully planned. He considers the bus drivers to be competent and efficient and expects that the occasional discipline problems on the bus will diminish as the children become more used to riding them.

Klein sees very few instances of vandalism at the school. Sometimes windows are broken along the side of the school that faces the ball field. There is a school security person who patrols the Greenbelt area, but there is no person who is assigned to maintain security in the building itself. Klein says there is no known use of drugs in the school.

The school faculty consists of 21 classroom teachers, and 9 other full and part-time staff members including a media librarian, an assistant principal, a physical education teacher, a music teacher, and one health room aide. The school also has a special program in motor development co-ordinated by Mrs. Freeman and Mrs. Farrell. This program helps children who have learning problems in the area of perceptual development.

Does i have a plan for you!

"i" is our newest Blue Shield plan for protection against the cost of medical and surgical care. It was developed because we felt many people wanted a higher level of coverage than our Plan B, but less than our Plan C.

So here it is. Blue Shield Plan i. It's the inbetween plan.

Plan i's benefits are higher than Plan B, and yet less expensive than our Plan C program (which provides full coverage for the physician's usual charge).

For instance, Plan i offers a higher level of coverage than Plan B, in accordance with an established fee schedule, for a single surgical procedure (up to $800), anesthesia (up to $230), and obstetrical benefits ($125 for a normal delivery, $375 for a Cesarean section). The program also provides higher benefits for all other covered services including X-rays, diagnostic services, inpatient physician consultations and radiation therapy. If you are interested in changing your group's program from B to i, call Blue Shield at 494-5150. (Plan i is available only to groups for the time being.)

Your health is what we're all about.

Bridge over troubled waters.

It's easy to forget that emergencies do happen. And when there is a crisis, you'll need a nest egg to fall back on.

The Payroll Savings Plan is one of the easiest ways to make sure you've something saved for when you need money fast. When you participate in the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, an amount you designate will be set aside from each paycheck and invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. It's an effortless way to build up a reserve.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, $5\frac{1}{2}\%$ when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra $\frac{1}{2}\%$, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all

with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Let's hope there are no troubled waters in your future. But remember, emergencies don't always happen to the other guys.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

FDR High School About One-third Completed

by Elaine Skolnik

With 31% of the project completed, the construction of the three-level Franklin D. Roosevelt Senior High School is moving ahead on schedule and expected to easily meet the projected opening date of September 1975.

All of the exterior and interior work has been accomplished on the commons, 60% of the auditorium is finished, and work on the academic wing has progressed to the first level of the 101 room structure which is located on a 40-acre triangular-shaped site occupying the central portion of the Smith-Ewing North tract east of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway in Greenbelt.

Visible from Greenbelt Road is the wedge-shaped auditorium and rectangular commons, both faced with medium brown brick. Connecting behind and to the north of these units is the partially constructed 2,400 pupil capacity academic wing and the soon to be constructed gymnasium. The front of the school will face east toward the NASA property. The athletic fields will be behind (and to the west of the school) fronting on the proposed Hanover Parkway. Parking lots for 859 cars will be located to the north and east of the school.

The auditorium seats 850 and is connected by a long corridor to the commons containing the dining and kitchen facilities. These units and the gymnasium are so placed that they may be closed off from the academic wing and programmed for independent and separate use. Lavatories and shower room will be accessible from the outside.

Erosion control measures have been instituted from the start to prevent the sediment from washing off into the stream. Storm sewer systems have been installed and the athletic fields graded and seeded. It is expected that a good stand of grass will cover the fields by the time the school is ready for use. The major fields will be fenced.

LET'S CLEAN UP

by Michael King
Troop 746

Remember the old saying "let George do it". There aren't many Georges around today. So it's time we stop leaving it up to the other guy. So let's start caring about our country. We should stop our talking and get our bodies into gear. When you are in one of our country's 32 National Parks or one of the 9,000 other parks in the U.S., try following these simple rules that will make our parks and cities look like parks and cities and not garbage dumps.

1. When hiking on a trail or walking on a sidewalk pick up litter.
- 2.) When leaving a campsite or picnic area, take 10 or 15 minutes to check the area for any trash (it isn't hard).
- 3.) Don't cut down live trees. Green wood doesn't burn very easily. Only take wood that has fallen on the ground.
- 4.) When you're finished with something, throw it in the garbage can — not on the ground (If one is not around, hold on to it 'til you find one.)
- 5.) Most importantly, make these rules a habit and use them everywhere and anywhere you are.

CYO Will Sponsor Special Basketball Day

St. Hugh's CYO will sponsor a "Basketball Day" with the Boys and Girls Club on March 16 at noon in Center Elementary School gym. The highlights of the afternoon will be a game between the CYO Athletic and Parish Council Boards vs. the CYO Coaches, as well as the Intermediate Boys vs. their fathers. An admission will be charged. Refreshments will be available.

Another step paving the way for the Springhill Lake Recreation Center was taken on Feb. 28 when the Prince Georges County Planning Board approved a preliminary plan of subdivision for the city-owned 11 acres at the intersection of Cherrywood Lane and Springhill Drive.

City plans call for the building to be constructed just north of the present clubhouse at the first tee at an estimated cost of $300,000. The architectural firm is preparing final plans.

Will your children grow up breathing cleaner air?

More natural gas can give us a cleaner world because it's virtually free of pollutants. When natural gas is burned, it doesn't harm the atmosphere.

Washington Gas is totally committed to easing the shortage of gas—so vital to a cleaner environment.

We're drilling for gas in Louisiana and West Virginia. We're investigating other possible sources of gas. The gas industry and the federal government are engaged in major programs to increase gas availability.

The search for new sources and new technology goes on—so that our children will have gas to burn. And cleaner air.
